What this is saying is that if Samuel Judged for exactly 0 years then the flood could not be after 2464 BC. Here is part of the the data set of weekday and Jubilee matches between 2464 BC and 3000 BC:

----MATCH---- means the weekdays come out right for that year, and JUBILLE CYCLE MATCH means 8 Jubilees synchronize properly. I have drawn a line through the last entry because it is not before 2464 BC. The variable x solves for $2464 + x = 2483$, $x = 19$. So Samuel ruled for 19 years. I have omitted all the FAILS data before 2543 BC. The number code 000 means that all three months, II, VII, and X failed to begin on the correct day of the week as implied in the flood account. A match is code 111. There are two other ways to deduce that Samuel ruled 19 years without using the flood year. This exercise thus confirms the accuracy of Calendar of Israel for the flood year. It also shows that the long advocated 360 day pre-flood year is not necessary to explain the data we are given in Genesis, namely that of the 17th day of the 2nd month to the 17th day of the 7th month spanning 150 days. It can be done with the current 29 and 30 day months. In this case, there are four 30 day months and one 29 days month. The inclusive counting provides 150 days.
